

We strongly oppose the consolidation of our media outlets. It is vital that we keep them diverse, independent, and competitive. America's best hope for an informed electorate is the free flow of information from the media.